22nd Culture and Arts Festival

We are with you with another festival following in the footsteps of the previous 21 years.

London, one of the cultural centres of Europe, is also a city of festivals. It hosts hundreds of festivals throughout the year. Alongside the festivals, it hosts exhibitions, performances, concerts and other cultural activities in its historic and artistic venues. Those ethnic minorities living in London also bring their own cultural and artistic activities to the capital. This cultural transfer, especially for our communities, reached a peak in recent years. Artists from Turkey and other European countries come to the capital to perform in commercially organised events and concerts almost every week.
